

HOW TO CREATE A TRAVEL BUCKET LIST & VISION BOARD

Whenever you visualize your ideal life by using vivid images, it paints a picture of exactly what you want your future to look like. In fact, the first step to becoming location-independent is to decide where in the world you want to go!

Below you will find my simple instructions for how you can make your own online travel vision board and use it as constant motivation for success in your life and business!

Step 1: Make a Travel Bucket List

Make a travel “bucket list.” Don’t overcomplicate this part. A travel bucket list is simply a list of all the places you want to see, visit or experience before you die.

Just sit down, close your eyes and give yourself permission to dream about all the places you want to go before you take your last breath in this lifetime. Now write them down!

For my online travel vision board, I chose to get specific not only about the countries I wanted to go to, but the actual cities I most want to explore.

To get the ideas flowing, ask yourself these questions:

- Where in the world would I like to visit?
- If money or fear were no issue, where would I go?
- What types of new foods do I want to try?
- What languages have I always wanted to learn?
- What historical landmarks do I dream of seeing with my own eyes?

There is no exact number of goals that should be on your travel bucket list, but I do recommend having at least 10. This will help to keep you motivated as you build your online empire!

Need more inspiration for your travel bucket list? Check out a few of the “top travel” lists for this year:

- 52 Places to Go in 2015 (New York Times)
- Best Places to Travel in 2015 (Travel and Leisure)
- Top 15 Places to Go in 2015 (Conde Nast Traveler)
- The 50 Best Places to Travel in 2015 (Time)
- Best Trips 2015 (National Geographic)

My travel bucket list destinations are numbered below:

1. Paris, France
2. Buenos Aires, Argentina
3. Bora Bora, French Polynesia
4. Bali, Indonesia
5. Havana, Cuba
6. Venice, Italy
7. Dubrovnik, Croatia
8. Amsterdam, Netherlands
9. Lisbon, Portugal
10. Sydney, Australia
11. Geneva, Switzerland
12. Tokyo, Japan
13. Reykjavík, Iceland
14. Istanbul, Turkey
15. Marrakech, Morocco
16. Dubai, UAE

Now, it's YOUR turn!

Get out your notebook or journal and let the ideas flow. Make sure you come up with a list of at least 10 must-see destinations!

Step 2: Choose One Image to Represent Each Place

Find ONE image that represents each destination on your travel bucket list. I recommend doing a Google Image Search for actual pictures of where you want to go.

For instance, I searched “Bali” and saved my favorite image to my computer. Repeat this process for each place you have on your bucket list.

I ended up with a total of 16 “must-see” places on my list, so I found 16 images to represent my choices.

(See my travel vision board image below.)

Of course, you can have as many or as few as you want! This is YOUR ideal life, remember?

Step 3: Create an Online Collage of Your Images

Create an online travel vision board for FREE using PicMonkey by making a collage of your inspiring images. Simply choose the “collage” option on the PicMonkey site and upload the pictures you chose in Step 2.

You will be able to select the layout of your collage based on how many images you have. I chose the 4×4 square layout because I had 16 pictures for my board.

(See my travel vision board image below.)

As an additional option, you can also use Pinterest to build your online travel vision board. Just create an account and pin up all your travel images!

Step 4: Use Your Travel Vision Board as Your Screensaver and Wallpaper

Save the final version of your online travel vision board to your computer and make it your screensaver.

If you have a smartphone, be sure to save the image as your wallpaper so that you can look at your board every time you pick up your phone!

If you take a moment to look at your travel vision board every day, it will motivate you to do what you need to do so that you can earn more money to turn your travel dreams into reality!

